To resolve viewing issues with Internet Explorer 8, click on the icon that looks like a broken piece of paper or go to Tools then click on Compatibility View.

Computers running Internet Explorer 8 (IE8) sometimes have difficulty viewing information using the GHIN widgets (at www.GHIN.com and at "GHIN Handicap Lookup" on the WSCGA web site). This is usually resolved by adjusting Internet Explorer 8 to perform in Compatibility mode, which can be done by clicking on the icon next to the browser address box that looks like a broken piece of paper, or by going to Tools and clicking the Compatibility View choice from the list. The Compatibility View setting mimics the Internet Explorer 7 browser.
